The Problem, Our Solution, Market Analysis, SWOT Analysis

The Problem

Planning last-minute getaways in India is a hassle for young travelers. Existing platforms often lack last-minute deals, have restrictive cancellation policies that discourage spontaneous trips, and offer generic recommendations that lead to tourist trap experiences.

Our Solution

GetawayGuru tackles these issues by providing a user-friendly platform with seamless last-minute booking, a flexible cancellation policy, and curated recommendations for hidden gems, empowering young explorers, to experience unforgettable getaways.

Market Need

Booking.com Solo Traveler Report 2023 highlights a global trend where travel is viewed as a form of self-care and stress relief.

The middle class is expected to make up

47%

of India's population by 2030

India's growing middle class has more disposable income to spend on travel and leisure activities.

Weekend getaways and short breaks are becoming increasingly popular.

Market Need

Limited focus on last minute deals

Limited inventory

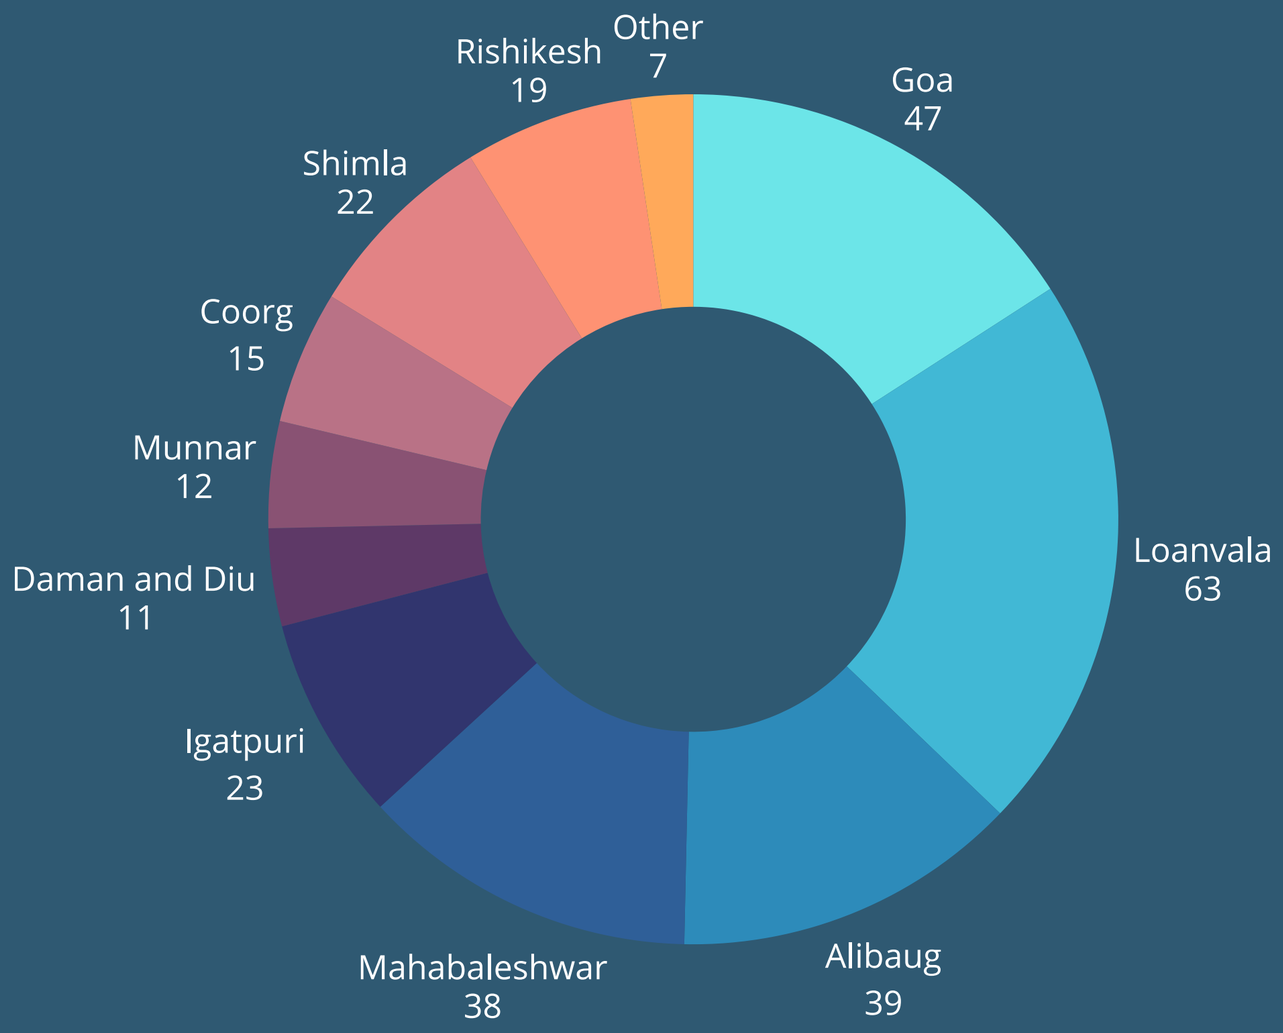

Smartphone penetration

Spontaneous travel

Target Audience

- Age: 22-40 years old
- Location: Mumbai and Pune
- Occupation: All occupations
- Travel Style: Impulsive travelers, budget-conscious travelers, weekend getaway seekers
- Tech Savvy: Comfortable using online booking platforms
- Social Media: Active on social media platforms like Instagram and Facebook

We asked our responders what were some destinations they would pick for spontaneous trips

Our findings:

69.2% of responders chose Lonavala

51.6% of responders chose Goa

42.9% of responders chose Alibaug

This is likely due to:

- Lonavala’s proximity to Mumbai and Pune along with scenic beauty and cooler temperatures
- Goa’s stunning beaches and vibrant nightlife
- Alibaug’s less crowded beaches and ease of travel due to M2M (Mumbai to Mandwa) ferry facility

Major reasons for cancelling last minute

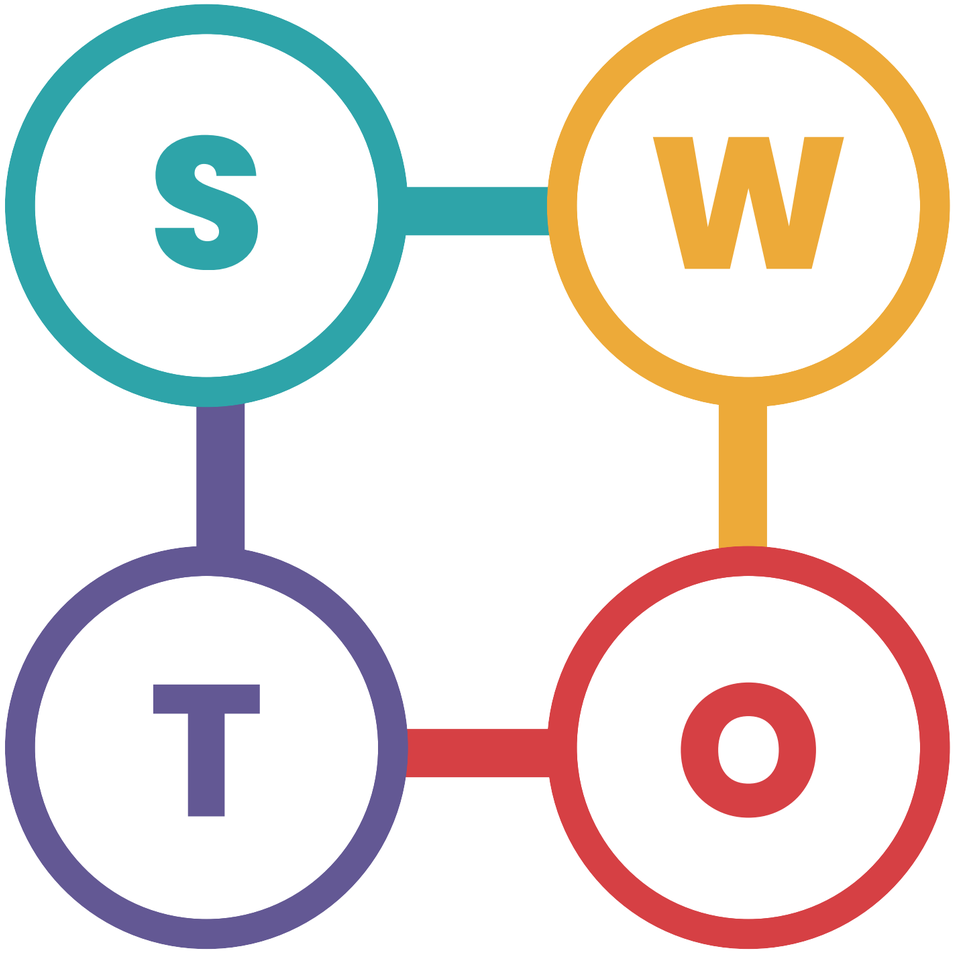

Insight: 30.8% cancel because they found a better deal. Free cash refunds would subsidise deal-hopping, so offer free rebooking or travel credit instead.
